Vice chancellor search narrowed to three

By MERRILEE MONK

After reviewing 90 applications, the search committee has narrowed the choices for vice chancellor for academic affairs to three, according to Dr. Ann McLaurin, committee chairman.

The candidates are Dr. Lloyd Chesnut, acting vice chancellor for academic affairs and professor of biological sciences at LSUS; Dr. Henry Dethloff, chairman of the history department of Texas A&M; and Dr. William Nevill, director of graduate studies and assistant dean of the graduate school at Indiana University — Purdue University at Indianapolis.

They have followed an extensive schedule of private interviews this week with the search committee, vice chancellors, college deans, department chairmen and SGA officers.

Chesnut earned a bachelor's degree in entomology, a master's degree in entomology and zoology and a doctorate in entomology and conservation of natural resources at Mississippi

State University. He spent a year in Washington, D.C., as a senior scientist with the Environmental Protection Agency and was a senior scientist at Integrated Pest Management. From 1980-82 he was project manager for the Inter-Society Consortium for Plant Management, a governing body of four professional societies representing 15,000 scientists. Chesnut also did research in Thailand on pest aquatic weeds.

Dethloff earned a bachelor's degree in pre-law at the University of Texas at Austin, a master's degree in history at Northwestern State University and a doctorate in history at the University of Missouri. As chairman of a history department that instructs 5,000 students each semester, Dethloff supervises 38 faculty, four teaching assistants, 50 graduate students and five staff members.

Dethloff's writings have been published extensively in leading history journals. He wrote the Louisiana history textbook used for eighth grades, a two-volume history of Texas A&M, an American economic history textbook and a book on Southwestern agriculture. He is co-author of a business textbook and editor of books about Thomas Jefferson and Huey P. Long. He was the organizer and director of the archives and manuscript program at the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Nevill earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry and mathematics at Butler University in Indianapolis and a doctorate in organic chemistry and plant physiology at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. He studied toward a juris doctorate at Indiana University Indianapolis Law School in contract and labor relations.

Nevill was a research chemist for Proctor & Gamble and a laboratory assistant for the United States Army Research and Development Lab. He was also chairman of the chemistry department of Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa from 1964-67.

The committee hopes to make a final selection by next week, McLaurin said.

Laurenson wins $100

By MERRILEE MONK

Roberta Laurenson, a student in the educational enrichment program, won the $100 first-place prize last week in an algebra competition sponsored by the department of mathematics and computer science, according to Francis D. Hanna, chairman of the competition committee and assistant professor of mathematics and computer science.

Participants that scored the highest on a written exam April 21 went on to compete April 23 in an oral exam conducted by the following members of the mathematics and computer science department: Dr. Carlos Spaht, department chairman and associate professor; Barbara Hubbard, instructor; and Conway Link, assistant professor.

Others who continued to the oral exam were Sharon Allen, Scot Ballantyne, Lisa McMahon and James Tyler. They will receive certificates of achievement. Doug Johnson, who scored in the top six on the written exam, was unable to participate in the oral exam, Hanna said.

The competition, which covered material from college algebra, was open to students enrolled in Math 150 or below (no calculus courses).

A $400 donation from a mathematics department faculty member (who wishes to remain anonymous) funded the competition, which will be repeated for the next three years, Hanna said. In future competitions, the department will give the written exam at more than one time and will publicize the event more widely to encourage participation, she said.

A plaque with the names of the top winners for the four years of competition will be placed in the mathematics and computer science departmental office, Hanna said.

The LSUS choir performed Wednesday in the University Center in its spring concert. The choir is under the direction of Norma Jean Lock.

Program Council offers an alternative

Often a young adult at LSUS grows tired of doing the same things weekend after weekend. If you like to go out partying, you may go to the Riverfront, to the LeBoss'ier, or to any one of the small bars in the twin cities. If you prefer to spend your weekend nights in a more subdued manner, you may chose to go to one of the several movie theaters in the cities. There never seems to be something really different to do.

Last weekend, the mold was broken. The Program Council sponsored what they called a "Fat Chance" Saloon in the University Center. The format of the program resembled that of the Greenwich Village concept of a few years back.

For no admission fee, the few students that did show up were treated to easy-listening music provided by Jody Kirkpatrick. The schoolish atmosphere had been somewhat relaxed by rearranging furniture and dimming the lights.

Kirkpatrick entertained the audience with his piano, guitar, and harmonica playing. His music provided a restful change to the loud punk or country-rock of area clubs.

The Saloon provided a peaceful alternative to the hum-drum weekend activities usually offered in Shreveport. Food was provided at no cost, and beer and popcorn were sold for 50 cents.

The turnout for the Saloon was disappointingly low. About 50 students showed for the program, which was scheduled after the free showing of the movie, "Rocky III."

The Program Council plans to form a committee to plan more of the "Fat Chance" Saloons for the student body of LSUS. The cost of the program is minimal, and the entertainment is of a good quality.

Only one problem exists now. That is lack of student participation. Such apathy could result in the death of the Friday-night Saloons.

Come on, students. Show some spirit. But most of all, show some support for a Program Council that is trying to provide the students with a safe, enjoyable alternative to the loud, obnoxious bars in the cities of Shreveport and Bossier.

Rampant Writers

White bull is student's torment

By WELLBORN JACK 3

Ernest Hemingway referred to his confrontations with the blank page as wrestling with the white bull. And starting May 9 LSUS students begin wrestling with their white bulls — final exams.

Final exams. Words that strike terror in the minds of most students. But for the mentally-prepped student the wrestling match is an easy victory.

The white bull feeds on student's test anxieties. Finals are easier and a student's chances to pass higher if a student starves the white bull by cutting off its food source — test-induced anxiety.

What can a student do to decrease test-related anxiety? Easy. Study, Study, Study. And not the night before the test.

The theory is simple. The best means of alleviating test anxiety is knowledge of the test material. By committing the subject matter of a test to memory the student is less likely to exhibit anxiety and the white bull dies of starvation.

Easy, huh? It is. But test anxiety can come from areas other than the lack of knowledge. Teachers can be blamed for some of the pressures that cause an increase in test-related anxiety.

Teachers should consider the following advice as they prepare to administer final exams. The suggestions listed below reduce test anxiety in students. Reduced anxiety equals higher grades.

First, under no circumstances assign work that would interfere with study the night before a test. Some students don't believe in the aforementioned theory and cram before tests.

Second, don't correct exams while others are taking the exam. It is unsettling for the dumb student taking the exam to see his smart friend's exam torn to shreds by a teacher's red pen.

Third, consider the size of student's desk when deciding on the physical format of the exam. There's nothing worse than balancing a test booklet, an answer sheet, scratch paper, one pen, one pencil, cigarettes and a cup of coffee on an 11 by 12 inch desk.

Fourth, final exam periods last two hours. Plenty of time to take an exam. During the test allow students to walk into the hall and stretch their legs, smoke a cigarette, get a drink of water, or eat a candy bar.

Relaxation is the key to reducing test-related anxiety. Have you ever tried to relax in a student desk?

Overall, relax the strict atmosphere of finals. And please don't be tardy to a class scheduled for an exam. The 120 minutes in a final-exam period are a precious commodity to the test-taking student.

Students, remember, the white bull is a dumb animal provoked by the smallest hint of anxiety. Defeating the white bull is assured if you study and your teacher creates a proper final-exam environment.

Public radio plans progressing

By LARRY TERRY

KDAQ 89.9 FM will be the first public radio station in this metropolitan area and will be located on the LSUS campus.

The 100,000 watt station, the most powerful in Louisiana, will serve 18 counties and parishes within the Ark-La-Tex reaching approximately 840,000 people. It will be on the air 18 hours per day, seven days per week, and steady progress is being made in efforts to get the station operational possibly by late this year or early next year, said Dr. Peter Smits, assistant to the chancellor for development and alumni affairs.

Dr. Donald Mullally, director of broadcasting for station WILL at the University of Illinois, has been hired as consultant for the station.

His responsibilities include processing paperwork with the Federal Communications Commission, writing specifications and evaluating bids for the equipment, and testing, inspecting and supervising the installation of the equipment here and at the transmitter site in Mooringsport. He will also assist in the renovation of the classrooms on the first floor of Bronson Hall which will initially house the radio station.

Smits emphasized that since the station will be public and therefore non-profit and non-commercial, public input and financial support will be important to the project's success.

In addition to last Fall's $200,000 grant, the amount necessary to get the station on the air and keep it operational for two years will be $450,000. Of that amount, $75,000 will match the federal grant, $25,000 will be used to renovate the Bronson Hall classrooms, and 350,000 will cover two full years of operational expenses.

The fund raising campaign is vital. It must bring in enough money to support public radio and preferably come from the public, not the state.

Two phases of the fund-raising campaign will be the solicitation of leadership gifts and memberships. One-time leadership gifts may vary individually from a low of $500 to a high of $35,000, and will come from a limited number of companies or individuals. Memberships may be obtained with gifts of $25 to $500.

Shreveport attorneys Don Weiss and Neil Erwin, of the law firm Wiener Weiss Madison and Howell, are chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the public radio committee. Alvin Childs Jr. serves as the liaison between the University Associates and the public radio committee.

SGA

Shoot Gay Americans?

Dear Editor:

I can't stand it anymore. I've held my breath too long. Recent controversies over discrimination have given me the courage to speak out. I, the undersigned, formally demand that the Student Government Association change its name immediately. My friends and I have known for many years that SGA actually stands for "Shoot Gay Americans." I cannot believe that the SGA has been allowed to use these three vicious letters for all these years. I am not gay, but I feel that I speak for all gays when I make this request. These three letters are an insult to gays throughout the nation, especially to the gays at LSUS. Gays have been ridiculed and discriminated against since time began. These three letters serve to perpetuate countless years of cruelty. I feel that it is time for this stupidity to end. Men and women, regardless of sex preferences, should live in harmony. "Shooting Gay Americans" is not the way to achieve this goal. If the SGA does not change its name by 12:38 p.m., Friday, April 29, 1983, I'll be real mad and I'll hold my breath until I turn blue!

Sincerely,
Ronald G. Angus, Jr.

Time to stop living in past

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to Michael Rappolo about his article in the last Almagest.

I think your feelings about the Confederate flag, the South, and your heritage are commendable, but what makes you think that other people from different parts of the country aren't just as loyal as you are? How can you judge others that way?

We live in a world that has gone past "North and South," to become a true United States and everything that entails.

As a transplanted "Yankee" from the state of Maine, I can tell you that yes, it is lovely here, and yes you do have something to be proud of but, by the same token, I am just as proud of my heritage as you are but I don't berate others for believing in theirs. We all live in this world together, for better or worse.

As you point out, "times have changed" and may I say that you need to stop living in the past and join the rest of us that are trying hard just to live and survive in this ever changing world around us.

Thank you,
Cindy Voigtlander

YOUR As AND Bs COULD GET YOU INTO O.C.S.

Your Bachelor of Science (BS) or Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree could be your ticket into Army Officer Candidate School (OCS).

Naturally, you have to pass mental and physical tests. Then complete basic training, and you're on your way to O.C.S. at Fort Benning, Georgia. Fourteen weeks later, you could be wearing second lieutenant's bars.

It's not easy. But you'll come out tough. Sure in your ability to lead. You'll be in great shape. And you'll gain management skills civilian corporations look for.

When you think about your future, O.C.S. seems like a great place to start. Look into it with your Army Recruiter.

Parents become video maniacs

By JULIE KILPATRICK

"Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way? What's the matter with kids today?"

Kids? Ha. I think this very antiquated song should be changed to "What's the matter with parents today?"

One of the worst things being said about the young today is their obsession with video games. Well, it's not just kids.

My parents are video junkies. They've got Pac-Man Fever, and I don't know what to do. It's just not very effective when I threaten to put them on restriction or take away their spending money.

It's really my fault. I was the one who wanted an Atari for the Christmas before last. I thought it would be mine, all mine. Oh sure, I'd let them play it from time to time, but when I said they could. What power!

But they were just too smart for me. They had plans, plans for my Atari that I was too naive to understand. They were planning a complete takeover in which I was just a pawn, or rather a blank cartridge.

They started slowly, with Space Invaders. But it progressed to that dreaded quarter-cruncher, PAC-MAN. I know now that Pac-Man is just Japan's way of revenge for World War II. But can they see this? NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO.

I guess I should just be grateful that they don't do drugs like other problem parents.

"Little River

Bands Greatest Hits"

By BILLY BOSWELL

For all of you who appreciate quality lyrics and background, and who like to cruise around town with the stereo up full-blast, this is the tape for you.

"The Little River Band's Greatest Hits" album is out. And it's great.

Granted, there have been several quality albums put out by performers such as Stevie Wonder, Michael Jackson, Hall and Oates, Jackson Browne and the like that have been great from beginning to end. "The Little River Band's Greatest Hits" ranks among the best.

I guarantee you'll know the words of each song on the tape, from beginning to end. And the tape isn't dull, just because you might know all the lyrics. They have a combination of older songs such as "Reminiscing," "Happy Anniversary," "It's a Long Way There" and "Lonesome Loser."

Newer, more recent cuts on the tape include, "Help Is On Its Way," "Man on Your Mind," "The Other Guy," "The Night Owls," "Take It Easy On Me," "Down On The Border," "Lady" and "Cool Change."

So go out and add this weapon to your musical arsenal. You never know when you may need a 'cool change.'

"We're getting an education to run a filling station."

So ran the words of an old song popular during the Depression. No, we're not in a depression, but if our energy sources dry up so will our jobs. Industry and business depend on energy to survive. And to supply that energy, utility companies must make full use of today's technology and of every available energy source including nuclear power and coal. The failure to utilize these two sources of energy, along with others available, could seriously jeopardize the industrial and economic growth of our area. And growth is what we need to provide jobs.

"High Road To China"

By KAREN ROSENGRANT

"High Road to China is a fast-paced adventure that takes Bess Armstrong (Eve) and Tom Selleck (O'Malley) from India to China in search of Eve's father.

If Eve doesn't bring her father home within 12 days, his business partner will have him declared dead so he can take over the business, collecting all the profits. Since this would cut off Eve's allowance, she hires O'Malley, a former WWI ace who is now a heavy drinker, to fly across the world with her to find her father.

The plot is not new: Boy and girl are thrown together in an adventure. Boy and girl hate each other. Boy and girl overcome perils together. Boy and girl realize they're in love.

What saves "High Road to China" is the teaming of Selleck and Armstrong as O'Malley and Eve. Selleck has a magnetic screen presence like Burt Reynolds has. In fact, "High Road to China" reminds me of a Reynolds' movie which has a daredevil pilot instead of a daredevil driver. Also, this time Selleck is making the movie fun despite its cardboard characters.

Sally Field has been replaced by Armstrong, who pulls off the role of the spunky society girl who surprisingly can fly and shoot a gun well.

"High Road to China" doesn't carry any deep message — except maybe that women should stay out of Afghanistan. (While staying with a barbaric group in Afghanistan, Armstrong is slapped for speaking out and for looking the group's leader straight in the eye.)

Nevertheless, unlike the other movies that are in town now, at least "High Road to China" is entertaining.

"High Road to China," rated PG, is now showing at the Quail Creek Cinema.

You need energy to get a job!

Industry and business need customers to buy the products they make. They also need energy to produce those products. In order to supply the needed energy, utility companies must take advantage of the most up-to-date technology and make full use of every available energy source including nuclear power and coal. The failure to utilize these two sources of energy along with others available could seriously jeopardize the industrial and economic growth of our entire area. And growth is what provides jobs. Energy. You need it to get a job.

Cultural music revue

The Foreign Language Club will present a cultural music revue, "A World of Music and Dance," tonight at 7:30 in the UC Theatre. Sixteen students from LSUS and Centenary will perform folk dances from nine regions, sing in English, French and Spanish and dance to music celebrating four American cities.

Tickets, available at the door, are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and children. Richard Stuckmeyer, club president, is director and choreographer for the revue.

Ensemble to perform

The University Symphonic Wind Ensemble will present its 1983 Spring concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the UC Theatre.

Fourteen members of the ensemble, which is in its first year of existence, will perform on woodwind, brass and percussion instruments under the leadership of Dr. H.M. Lewis, associate professor of music.

The concert is open free to the public.

Yearbooks!

Yearbooks will be distributed Monday through Wednesday in BH360.

Assistance offered

The Office of Admissions and Records will be happy to assist handicapped students in completing registration. Anyone interested in this assistance may contact Janet Powell, assistant director for records and registration, in SC120.

Writing award won

An undergraduate, Sally Montgomery, won first place in the "Pursuing the Past" writing competition sponsored by the University Archives for her "The Case of Herold Et Al v. Parish Board of School Directors Et Al."

Winners received their awards during the spring luncheon of the North Louisiana Historical Association.

The writing competition is designed to encourage and reward research and writing on the history and culture of the Red River Valley region and surrounding hill country.

Fines

Revised traffic regulations and increased parking fines will become effective during the summer semester.

Parking fines will be $5, and illegal parking in handicapped zones at any time will be $10. An additional $5 will be charged if fines are not paid within three school days.

Copies of full regulations will be available before the summer semester.

All student fines must be paid in the Business Affairs Office before grades are released, transcripts are mailed or students allowed to graduate. These fines include library fines, lab breakage fees, insufficient checks, delinquent loans and parking fines.

Social justice day

A social justice day sponsored by the SURVIVAL (Students, Urban, Rural, Veterans, Indigent, Volunteers, Aged, Labor) Coalition is tomorrow from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 875 Cotton. Registration is 9:30-10 a.m., and the fee is $2.

French play

The Foreign Language Club will sponsor a French play, "La Fille Bien Gardee," Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the UC Theatre. Four area CODOFIL teachers, including Yvette Tombarello, the supervisor of foreign teachers in Northwest Louisiana, will star in the production, along with Richard Stuckmeyer, an LSUS student. Tombarello is also director.

The play, written by Eugene Labiche, is a 19th century one-act comedy. Although the play will be in French, it will be easily understood through vivid visual expressions. A detailed synopsis in English will be distributed at the door.

Entrance is free to the public.

Help for CPA exam

The University will offer a free review course of the business-law portion of the CPA exam in a session tomorrow from 8:30-11:30 a.m. in BE104.

The review is open to all those seriously considering taking the next CPA exam May 4, 5 and 6 or those planning to take the exam within the coming year. Larry Clark, assistant professor of management and marketing, will teach the review.
